'A Message in Time' investigates the relationship between humans and the written word, our obsession with communication, and how this continues to evolve and change as new technologies come on-stream.

On display at Tipperary County Museum are an extraordinary collection of vintage postcards, parcel tricycles and hand carts, retro post office, animations and webcam booth!

ARTISTIC COLLABORATIONS INCLUDE:

- 'Katie Hanlan' Textile Artist
- 'Lay of the Land' Textile Sculpture
- James Earley Graffiti work on the gable wall of Channons Forge, Clonmel.

Further community collaborations will be rolled out over the course of the exhibition.

Medieval Riots, Murder & the Mob

Finbar Dwyer Irish History Podcast

Heritage Week

Wednesday 23rd August 2017

Venue: Tipperary County Museum Clonmel

Time: 7.30pm

Admission: Free

The story of protest in medieval Ireland is a forgotten but fascinating one. This lecture will examine the reasons for protest in medieval times and the nature of protest. In this lecture, Finbar Dwyer (Irish History Podcast) will discuss protests from late medieval Ireland. While forthright and often violent these protests voiced the concerns of ordinary people so often excluded from written records.
