How Do I Comply With The Bye-Laws?

In order to manage your waste correctly you need to be able to prove that: You have a contract in place with an authorised waste collector (bin sharing is permitted for which proof of agreement is required);

OR

You can demonstrate regular use of an authorised waste facility.

---

Why Do We Need These Bye-Laws?

- To help you manage your waste in an environmentally acceptable manner;
- To ensure that your waste is only given to an authorised door-to-door waste collector or brought to an authorised waste facility;
- To help ensure your waste is correctly segregated;
- To reduce illegal dumping and backyard burning.

What Happens If I Don't Comply?

If you fail to comply with any of the requirements of the bye-laws it may result in a Fixed Penalty Notice (Maximum €75) being issued by this local authority or member of An Garda Síochána. It may also lead to fine on convictions of up to €2,500.

What Do I Do if I Live In a Managed Apartment Complex?

The bye-laws will still apply; the management company is to ensure adequate containers are provided for residual and recyclable wastes in designated waste storage points.

They are also obliged to provide you with the written information regarding the arrangements in place. Segregation within the apartments will be the responsibility of the occupant, in order for the segregated system to work all apartments must play their part.

Is There Anything Else I Need To Do?

Yes: you must segregate recyclable waste from your residual waste and present these separately. If you are living in an urban area, small town or village with a population of over 500 you must also segregate your food waste.
