

'Face to Place' EXHIBITION

Prints available on request @ museum reception

Due to popular demand South Tipperary County Museum will host a reprise of Donal Wylde's nostalgic photographic exhibition "The Light of Other Days" in contrast with Waterford Landscape Photographer Terry Murphy's panoramic images of South Tipperary's beautiful countryside.

"The Light of Other Days" captures life in Clonmel and South Tipperary in the 1960s and 1970s as seen through the lens of Donal Wylde as a youthful photo-journalist with "The Nationalist".

Terry Murphy's "Panoramix" features large format gicleé prints of South Tipperary's beauty spots and hidden treasures. Better known as a commercial photographer, Terry's passion has always been for atmospheric landscapes and seascapes in his native South East.

'Face to Place' is a collection of unique images from Irelands premier county, Tipperary.

RSVP: Bernadette Corr @ 052 61 34552 or email museum@southtippcoco.ie